

The Ming Dynasty (Part 1) - The China History Podcast

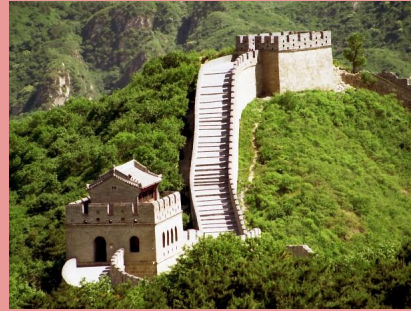

Zachary Cahn

The Ming Dynasty begins in 1368 under the reign of the Hongwu Emperor

Under Hongwu Emperor, huge achievements were made in agriculture leading to population booms.

The only remaining parts left from the Great Wall today are the sections looked after during this period.

Despite opening its doors to Islam, the Hongwu Emperor, placed a ban on maritime trade in order to limit piracy.